Induction Cum Orientation Program for First-Year Students

Session: August - December 2024

Introduction

The KC Group of Research and Professional Institutes successfully organized an Induction Cum Orientation Program for the first-year students of the August-December 2024 session (12-Aug-2024). The program aimed to welcome new students, provide them with essential information about the institute, and help them integrate into the academic environment.

Day 1: Welcoming the New Students

Registration:

The program commenced on Day 1 with registration from 9:30 AM to 11:30 AM. Students were warmly welcomed by faculty members and staff, who guided them through the registration process.

Inaugural Session:

Following registration, students gathered at the seminar hall for the inaugural session. The Vice Principal, Mr. Suryakant Singh, delivered an inspirational speech, motivating students to embrace their academic journey with enthusiasm and dedication. His words set a positive tone for the days ahead.

Ms. Lovely, Head of the Department of Applied Sciences, also addressed the students. She provided valuable insights into the importance of applied sciences in today's world and encouraged students to make the most of their time at KCGRPI.

Refreshments:

After the speeches, refreshments were served, allowing students to mingle and connect with each other.

Fun Activities:

Post-lunch, students participated in fun games organized by their seniors. This interactive session not only fostered camaraderie among students but also helped ease any anxieties they may have had about starting their new academic journey.

Day 2: Academic Insights and Campus TourPresentation:

On Day 2, the program featured a presentation by Er. Saurabh AP from the Civil Engineering Department. He provided an overview of the college, detailing the various courses offered, as well as opportunities for cultural and industrial visits. He also highlighted the placement services available to students, emphasizing the importance of internships and job placements in shaping their careers.

Campus Tour:

After lunch, students were taken on a guided tour of the campus. They visited various departments, including laboratories, classrooms, the library, and workshops. This tour allowed students to familiarize themselves with the facilities and resources available to them throughout their studies.

Conclusion

The Induction Cum Orientation Program was a resounding success, effectively welcoming first-year students into the KC Group of Research and Professional Institutes. The combination of inspirational speeches, interactive activities, and informative sessions ensured that students felt supported and excited about their academic journey ahead. We look forward to seeing these students thrive in their respective programs and contribute positively to our college community.
